

Dusky Morwong

Dactylophora nigricans

Dusky Morwong, Dactylophora nigricans, photo courtesy of Rudie Kuitert.

Also known as Strongies or Strongfish, this morwong is typically found amongst seagrass meadows and low rock reefs. It is longer and thinner than other Victorian morwongs. It often rests on the seafloor nestled amongst the weed with only the head sticking out. This fish is day active and mainly feeds on invertebrates.